Twenty Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year A, October 15th 2017. Bulletin No: 1185.

Dressing for the Party

Matthew's story is so overlaid with symbols that it is easy to forget the central image of God as a gracious host who hopes that everyone will come to his banquet. That central image is at the heart of Matthew's story, but it could easily be lost amid the contrary symbols, where roast oxen get cold while a military expedition burns the city. And after that, when the king sees that among the bad and good picked up from the streets there is one without proper attire for a wedding, he has him bound hand and foot and thrown into outer darkness. All this makes it difficult to hold on to the original image of a generous host who knows how to throw a party.

The conclusion to Matthew's parable of the wedding feast is another parable, the story of the wedding garment. It is similar to a parable of Rabban Johanan ben Zakkai, who was teaching about the same times as Matthew was writing. In this parable a king invited his servants to a feast, without saying what time it would take place. The wise prepared themselves at once and waited at the palace gates, for they believed that a palace would prepare a feast very quickly. The foolish went off to their work, for they believed the preparations would leave them plenty of time. Suddenly the king announced everything was ready. The wise ones came into the royal presence as they were, dressed in clean clothes - the acceptable wedding garment. The foolish ones arrived as they were, in their dirty work clothes. The king welcomed those who were properly dressed, and commanded the others to stand and look on at the joy they had lost.

For ourselves, we hold precious the image of God who calls the good and bad to the banquet of life. The expectation is that we will prepare ourselves now by being dressed appropriately for the occasion, as Paul said - You are God's chosen race, his saints; he loves you and you should be clothed in sincere compassion, in kindness and humility, gentleness and patience..... Over all these clothes, to keep them together and complete them, put on love. And may the peace of Christ reign in your hearts.

Celebrating Our Parish Feast Day

We gathered after the 11.30 Mass on Sunday to celebrate together our Parish Feast Day. As usual a lovely cuppa and a good chat was order of the day. Thanks to those who served us tea, baked us cakes and cleaned up afterwards! Take a look at the notice board showing some of our Parish life over the last year.

A blanket of prayer around Ireland : Eamon Martin, the archbishop of Armagh has a vision of a 'blanket of prayer' wrapping around the needs of Ireland and the world today, and inspiring 'a new springtime' for the faith. He is inviting people to join a prayer apostolate by registering as 'intercessors' on the myprayer.ie website and making the following commitments: to offer personal prayers each day for the intentions uploaded myprayer.ie; to pray regularly with others for the intentions of myprayer.ie encouraging others to join myprayer.ie We can of course take part in this group of praying people, without even signing up to the website!

We welcomed into the Christian Community through the Sacrament of Baptism
