The Most Holy Trinity, Year C, June 16th 2019. Bulletin No: 1272

Isaac Newton was one of the greatest mathematicians and scientists that ever lived. Yet towards the end of his life he said of his achievements:

‘I do not know what I appear to the world, but to myself I appear to have been like a little boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.’

Even when we think we understand the mystery of God, we are still only beginning. We are still only children playing on the shore. The mystery grows instead of diminishing with each new discovery.

Some people want to know everything, to explain everything, break everything down to facts. But it is exciting to live with mystery. Albert Einstein said, ‘The most beautiful experience we can have is that of the mysterious.’ Even with faith, the mystery, the darkness, the unknowable remain. The whole of life is not visible to us. As Van Gogh said, ‘Here on earth we see only one hemisphere.’

New Pilgrim Path Website of the Week

Karen Armstrong, religious historian and former Catholic nun, is a provocative, original thinker on the role of religion in the modern world. She promotes a new kind of religious discourse that goes back to the core values of religion: every single religion is based on compassion and on the golden rule, first propounded by Confucius 500 years before Christ, "Do not do to others what you would not like them to do to you. Look into your own heart, discover what it is that gives you pain, and then refuse under any circumstance to inflict that pain on anybody else... This is civilization". The Holy Spirit's Role in the Church

The Church is now the messianic community who lives the life of Christ today in the power of the Holy Spirit on its pilgrim journey through this world. Following on from Baptism, the gift of the Holy Spirit given at Confirmation prepares the People of God to be 'prophets,' and witness publically to God in the world. Like Christ the Messiah, they are called to proclaim freedom to those who are enslaved to a life separated from God and others. The charisms of the Spirit such as the gifts of teaching, prophecy and healing build up Church communities and yet the ultimate charism is charity: God's own love in us expressed in unity.

It is the Holy Spirit who continually keeps the Church alive in Christ. The Church's task is not simply to hand on a historical set of beliefs, sayings and commandments given by Christ and the Christian community at a point in history. Rather it is the Spirit who keeps the Word of God alive and active in the Church today to change our lives. To live in the Spirit is to live a life of freedom by the power and grace of God. It is a gift for living Christian faith amidst life's ups and downs and to begin each day anew more like Christ, who is by nature what we are by adoption – a child of the Father. Through the presence of the Holy Spirit in our lives, God's promise is fulfilled: 'I will not leave you orphans' and 'I am with you until the end of the age'.

Quote of the week

"How do I know the Lord listens to me?
We have a certainty: Jesus. He is the great intercessor. His prayer of intercession is never-ending."

– Pope Francis

Challenge:

This week while praying, speak to Jesus and ignore any fear about asking him to intercede on your behalf, while also putting your trust in Him.
