

New Pilgrim Path Website of the Week

4th October is the feast of St Francis of Assisi. By any earthly standard, his life was a failure. He had to resign as the head of the Order he founded, as his followers rejected his teaching of absolute poverty. His peacekeeping efforts, when he travelled to the Holy Land and crossed the border to engage with talks with the Sultan of Egypt, failed. His deathbed was attended by only two or three friends. Yes, his legacy is incalculable and completely current. As we end the month-long Season of Creation, we celebrate the patron saint of ecology. An hour-long documentary based on Donald Spoto's acclaimed biography, St Francis of Assisi: Reluctant Saint, strips away the legends from the life of Francis of Assisi to reveal the true story of a man who has too often been obscured by pious iconography. ### To Enter the Kingdom of God...

Jesus says to us 'Unless you become like little children you will not enter the kingdom of heaven'. We tend to regard childhood as something that we must grow out of as if there was nothing in it that was worth keeping.

We have to distinguish between being childlike and being childish. To be childish implies immaturity, throwing tantrums, being silly, being irresponsible... children are not angels. These are things we should grow out of. But there are lovely childlike qualities which we should try to hold onto - openness, receptivity, sense of wonder, ability to live in the present..

Nothing is easier as life goes on that to grow old in heart, dry and disillusioned, cynical and selfish. Children put us in touch with the gentler and more innocent part of themselves that we may have discarded in the struggle or battle of life. They revive in us too a sense of wonder, and it is the sense of wonder above all that keeps us young.

When Jesus says to us, 'Unless you become like little children you will not enter the kingdom of heaven,' he is recalling us to our lost childhood, so that though old and frail in body we might be reborn in innocence of character.

Jesus says we can't enter the Kingdom unless we receive it like a child. The kingdom is a gift. No one can enter the kingdom who is not open to receive it as a gift.
