New Pilgrim Path

The 'Christian Art' website is the brainchild of a former director of Sotheby's, London, Patrick van der Vorst, recently ordained to the Catholic priesthood. He offers the Gospel reading of the day, alongside a work of art and offers a short reflection on the artwork and the reading. Simple, it may be, but the results are sometimes astonishing. Access the website at: www.newpilgrimpath.ie.

SMILE AWHILE

A priest, a rabbit and a minister walk into a bar. The bartender asks the rabbit, "What will you have?" The rabbit shakes his head and answers "I have no idea, the only reason that I am here is because of Autocorrect."

The Most Holy Trinity, Year B, 26h May, 2024. Bulletin No: 1517.

The Trinity and Community

The Christian God is not a remote, lonely God, watching us with a critical eye from heaven. The Christian God is a little community of love. This community consists of three distinct persons, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit, who want to share their love with us.

We Christians should strive for community. Because God is community and we are created in God's image: 'God made human beings in the image of himself, male and female he created them' (Gen 1;27).

The image of God is at its best and brightest in us when we live in a community where there is love and sharing. We cannot have this intimacy in a parish of thousands, or even hundreds of people. It can be achieved only in smaller groups the parishes of the future may consist of a network of small communities. Though these will have their own autonomy, they will be open to one and other and combine together to make a communion of communities (the parish).

We of course, are human, and fall short of the ideal. Yet we must never cease trying if Jesus asks us to make community, it is because with his grace it is possible. In practice it involves certain procedures, such as: being socially together, supporting each other in the spiritual life through faith sharing, prayer and the Eucharist.

We are saved through relationships. So community is not an optional extra. It is of the essence of Christianity.
