New Pilgrim Path

“Centering Prayer is not done with attention but with intention”. Episcopal priest, modern day mystic and internationally acclaimed retreat leader, Dr Cynthia Bourgeault, has worked closely with Fr. Thomas Keating, the American Trappist monk who founded the Centering Prayer method, for nearly 25 years. Click here to access her engaging 30-minute introduction to this simple (if not always easy) practice: www.newpilgrimpath.ie.

Twenty First Sunday in Ordinary Time, Year B, 25th August, 2024. Bulletin No: 1530.

Freedom to Choose

When God created us, he could have made us robots. That way he would have total control over us. But God didn't do that. God gave us freedom that is, the power to choose. We could choose to obey or to disobey, to do good or to do evil. We value freedom very highly. Rightly so because after life freedom is God's greatest gift to us. To be deprived of freedom is to be like a bird shorn of its wings.

But with freedom comes responsibility. Because we are free, we are responsible for our choices, and have to answer for them. There are benefits to choosing wisely. And there are consequences for choosing wrongly. Having given us freedom, God will never take it away from us, even when we abuse it.

After life, freedom is the greatest thing we have. The only thing that has moral value, and which helps us to grow, is what is done freely. Without freedom, no evil, at least no moral evil, is possible. But no virtue is possible either. Virtue is when we have a choice to do good or evil, and we choose to do good. Virtue can't be imposed; it has to be freely chosen. Virtue has a great strength when it is deliberately chosen.

When we live as God intended us to live, we are free. We experience the truth of what Jesus said: 'The truth will set you free.'
