New Pilgrim Path

Julian of Norwich, a 14th century mystic and anchoress is believed to be the first woman to have written a book in the English vernacular. Her book, Revelations (or ‘Showings’) of Divine Love, describes an extraordinarily positive and confident view of humanity’s relationship with God. Philip Sheldrake, a distinguished religious historian and theologian, discusses Julian’s rich teaching on prayer and, more broadly, on the spiritual journey. www.newpilgrimpath.ie

Second Sunday Special Invitation

Join us after the 11am Mass on Sunday 11th August. Fr. Robert Smialek will be visiting Sallynoggin this week following his Ordination for the Diocese of Westminster in June. As a Parish Community we have been praying for Fr. Robert while he studied for the priesthood. Some of you will remember his visits to us during his Diaconate. This will be a lovely opportunity to meet with him. Please do stay and join the celebration. There will be an opportunity for any of you who wish to receive a blessing from Fr Robert after the weekday Masses while he is here.

Summer Flowers

Garden flowers or greenery for church decoration can be left in the sacristy on Thursdays. We would be most grateful.

Thank you.

SMILE AWHILE

Never be afraid to try something new. Remember, amateurs built the Ark. Professionals built the Titanic.

Dublin Diocesan Pilgrimage to Lourdes

Your support is requested for the Annual Diocesan Pilgrimage in September. Donations to help invalids to go to Lourdes can be made at weekend Masses.

The Price of Freedom

After every great moment there comes a moment of reaction - and it is in the reaction that the danger lies. It seems to be a law of life that just after our resistance power has been at its highest it nose-dives to its lowest.

Writing about his Auschwitz experience, the Italian writer, Primo Levi, said:

In the majority of cases, the hour of liberation was neither joyful nor light-hearted. Many suicides occurred immediately after the liberation. By contrast, suicides were rare during imprisonment. In my own case release was a critical moment which coincided with a flood of rethinking and depression.

And Elie Wiesel, another Auschwitz survivor, said:

During the ordeal, I lived in expectation... of a miracle, or of death. It was only later, after the nightmare was over, that I underwent a crisis, painful and anguished, questioning all my beliefs.

In theory, having been released, they should have lived happily ever after. Yet it frequently happened that those who came back died fairly soon after their ‘return to life’. How does one account for this? While they were in limbo it was the dream of being released that gave them the strength to survive. But freedom didn't always live up to expectations. Some of them had nothing to go back to.

Freedom presents it’s own challenges. It means taking responsibility for one’s life. This is no easy thing especially for those who have got used to others making all the decisions for them. Freedom calls for self-discipline. It’s easier to be disciplined by others than to discipline oneself. It’s easier to turn a man into a slave than a slave into a man.
