When Giving Becomes a Sacrifice

All giving is good - just as all money is good. But like money, some giving is copper, some is silver and some is pure gold.

The test of a gift is not the amount in itself, but what its loss means to the giver. One kind of giving is when the giver gives what he/she can live without. This kind of giving doesn't really hurt. Most of our giving probably falls into this category. It is not to be dismissed. All giving is good. But there is another kind of giving, namely when the gift is as desperately needed by the giver as by the receiver. This kind of giving hurts. A real sacrifice is involved. This giving stands apart. This giving is pure gold.

We wonder how someone who was as poor as the widow in the gospel was able to perform an act of such spontaneous goodness. One needs to have been faithful over many years to the practice of generosity to have a heart like hers. It is not achieved by a few great deeds but by a lot of little ones. It is through giving that the heart remains open and one becomes a loving person.

Giving is at the heart of Gospel. It is the very essence of Christianity.
