For many of us, the first prayer we learned was one to our guardian angel and was left behind with our toys and other memorabilia of childhood. However, Pope Francis spoke powerfully about these guides in a 2018 homily when he urged us to remember that our guardian angel is our daily gate to transcendence: "Our angel is not only with us; he also sees God the Father. He is in relationship with Him". The text of his short homily is here: www.newpilgrimpath.ie.

Twenty Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time Year A, 4th October 2026. Bulletin No: 1639.

Bearing Good Fruit

The image of the vineyard runs through the readings for this Sunday. In Isaiah, God lovingly tends the vineyard, yet it produces only wild grapes. In the Gospel, Jesus tells of a vineyard entrusted to tenants who forget that it does not belong to them. Instead of producing good fruit, they reject those sent by the owner, even killing his son.

The parable invites reflection on what has been entrusted to each person. Life, faith, relationships, talents and opportunities are gifts from God. They are not possessions to be guarded for personal benefit, but gifts meant to produce something good for others.

Good fruit is seen in kindness, patience, forgiveness, generosity and concern for those who may be struggling. It is found when faith moves beyond words and becomes visible in everyday actions.

The second reading offers practical guidance: rather than allowing anxiety to dominate, bring concerns to God in prayer and fill the mind with what is true, good and worthy of praise.

The vineyard is still in our care. The question is not simply what has been received, but what is being produced. May the lives entrusted to God's care bear fruit that brings hope, peace and love to others.
